Cambridge, July 6.

HIS Grace the Duke of Newcaſtle, Chancellor of this Univerſity, having on Tueſday laſt in Congregation declared his Reſignation of the Office of High Steward of the Univerſity, the Right Honourable the Lord Hardwicke, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, was Yeſterday unanimouſly elected into that Office.

Naples, June 24, N. S. The Court continues at Portici, and the Queen advances happily in her Pregnancy. Prince d'Ardore, late Ambaſſador at Paris, is arrived here; but no new one is yet named for that Court, nor for that of Madrid. There has been a great Reduction of the Troops, but the Officers remain in Pay.

Turin, July 5, N. S. The Marquis de St. Germain ſet out on the 26th paſt for Paris, where he propoſed to arrive on the 12th Inſtant; but M. de la Chetardie is not expected here till the Beginning of September. Count la Chavanne arrived two Days ago from the Hague, and was moſt graciouſly received by the King his Maſter. There is no Talk as yet who is to be his Succeſſor.

Compeigne, July 15, N. S. The Marquis de Mirepoix, who is appointed Ambaſſador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary from his moſt Chriſtian Majeſty to the Court of Great Britain, has Orders to repair hither, to receive his final Inſtructions, from whence he will ſet out for Calais in his Way to England.

Hague, July 15, N. S. A Reſolution was taken on Friday laſt, in the Aſſembly of the States General, to negociate the Sum of Seven Millions and Five Hundred Thouſand Florins, by Way of a Lottery, on account of the Generality. A Placart was publiſhed here laſt Week, by which the States of Holland inform the Publick, that with the Advice and Participation of the Prince Stadtholder, they were come to a Reſolution to levy, from the 1ſt of January 1750, by Means of Collectors, the ſeveral Impoſts that were formerly farmed out to the Pachters. They likewiſe declare, that in the new Regulations which will be made for that Purpoſe, particular Care will be taken to eaſe the common People, by diminiſhing the Taxes upon the Neceſſaries of Life, and to ſettle Things in ſuch a Manner, that Strangers will be obliged to contribute towards theſe Taxes as well as the Inhabitants of the Country. The States then proceeded to exhort their Subjects to continue to deſerve their good Opinion, by their Readineſs in contributing towards the Support of the State; and particularly, by paying at the appointed Terms, the Sums at which they have been lately aſſeſſed, towards the proviſional Taxes, promiſing that thoſe Taxes ſhall abſolutely ceaſe on the 1ſt of January 1750, notwithſtanding the malicious Inſinuations ſpread to the contrary by ſome evil minded Perſons, who are by this Placart declared Enemies to their Country, and threatned as ſuch with the moſt rigorous Puniſhments.
